

3,657,000 Yank Troops Overseas Ready For Decisive Action

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(AP)—Secretary of War Stimson said today that with 3,657,000 army troops already overseas, the deployment of air and service forces is practically completed "and the period of decisive action is at hand."

The bulk of forces now moving out of the United States to combat areas is composed of ground troops prepared to use the bases and take advantage of the preliminary air assaults for the final blow against the enemy, the secretary told a news conference, adding:

"The United States Army today has 3,657,000 soldiers deployed outside the Continental United States in theaters of operation throughout the world, striking and preparing to strike victory-winning blows by land, from the sea and in the air against Germany and Japan.

"This force, at the end of protected supply lines stretching more than 56,000 miles and reaching into every continent, represents approximately 47 percent of the total strength of the Army.

"By the end of 1944, the number of troops overseas will be increased to more than 5,000,000 men, approximately two-thirds of total strength."

Overseas deployment of necessity came first for the supply and air forces, Stimson noted, since it was necessary to build up the bases for the eventual main drives against the enemy. Those bases now are established, he said, and shipping is available for the movement of ground forces to the overseas theaters. This movement "rapidly is nearing the peak."

Stimson said the overseas strength of the Army exceeds the peak overseas strength in the World War I by 1,571,000 men, and is only 400,000 men short of the total strength of the Army at the close of the World War.

In speaking of the overseas deployment, Stimson explained his reference was to total strength, not to overseas location of the forces, which will have to be shifted at least in part, as the campaigns develop. The movement has been made according to a minutely-defined pattern set by the United States joint chiefs of staff to fit the over-all strategy of the war.

Stimson said the air forces, with a total strength of approximately 2,357,000, has slightly less than half of that personnel already overseas. The AAF has more than 75,000 airplanes, including 34,000 combat planes, he said, and more than one-half of

YANKS FIGHTING WITHIN SIGHT OF ROME

Rescue of more than 1,000 U. S. Navy personnel from the Liberty ship Henry Bergh, aground on the jagged rocks of Farallone Island, 30 miles off San Francisco, has been accomplished by destroyers and small patrol craft. The ship, bringing hundreds of Navy men home from the Pacific war zones, struck before dawn while heading for the Golden Gate in a heavy sea. Some of those rescued are shown arriving at the Navy base at San Francisco. (International Soundphoto).

SENATE ACTION ON CABARET TAX IS CHALLENGED

Murder Trial and War Work Cutback Among Several Topics of Interest

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(AP)—Some House leaders are challenging the Senate's right to take over the House duty of originating revenue legislation as it has done in approving a reduction in the cabaret tax from 30 to 20 percent. The move was made in attaching a rider to a bill, passed by the Senate yesterday, to raise the debt limit from $210,000,000 to $260,000,000. The tax rider also freed service men and women from payment of any night club tax.

"Love Triangle"
Robert I. Miller, 67-year-old police court attorney, stands acquitted today of a charge of murder in the shooting of Dr. John E. Lind with whom Miller's wife, Marguerite, says she had been intimate for nearly five years. Miller testified he shot Lind in self-defense when the psychiatrist reached for a gun as Miller attempted to get Mrs. Miller out of Lind's car. The slaying occurred shortly after noon in downtown Washington on February 21.

Brewster Cutback
The 12,000 employees of the Brewster Aeronautical Corporation plants at Long Island City, N. Y., and Johnsville, Pa., appeared reasonably certain today to continue to hold jobs in war production despite the Navy's termination of Brewster contracts, effective July 1. But their exact status was in doubt as the Navy reaffirmed its decision to end production of Corsair fighter planes by Brewster and leave the total output to two other plants, the Chance-Vought division of the United Aircraft Corporation at Bridgeport, Conn., and the Goodyear Aircraft Corporation at Akron, Ohio. Each of these, says the Navy, has been producing planes "very much more economically than Brewster."

MORE WOUNDED VETERANS AT CLEVELAND HOSPITAL

CLEVELAND, June 1.—(AP)—Another contingent of wounded overseas veterans, most of them soldiers from the Italian front, arrived early today at the Army's Crile General Hospital in suburban Parma. Yanks Crawl Through Nazi Lines During Night To Encircle Enemy

By KENNETH L. DIXON
BEHIND GERMAN LINES
SOUTH OF ROME, May 31—

(Delayed)—(AP)—A bunch of American fighting men staged one of the most spectacular infantry

coups of the war last night and early this morning by establishing themselves on a high razor-back ridge on Monte Artemision, overlooking Velletri.

They moved in ghostlike stealth by the hundreds through bright moonlight and infiltrated German lines and reserve positions.

At dawn today, they were in positions overlooking Velletri, which still is contested.

Between these Alban hills and Velletri, an unknown number of Germans are caught in a slowly closing trap, completely surprised because the GI's came all the way without firing a single shot.

Our position overlooks Rome to the north and Velletri to the south.

I accompanied the troops in their circuitous 15-mile crawling, scrambling and hiding hike.

They accomplished their feat by slipping past German machine-gun positions so close that bright tracers fired toward our side of the front flashed over our heads as we crawled along.

They "eliminated" without noise the few German outposts and sentries which they could not by-pass. By crawling and crouching along a snake-like course through the vineyards and forests and up almost perpendicular slopes, they took advantage of every possible cover.

The closest calls came when the Germans staged a front line air raid while we still were in no-man's land. Flares were dropped, illuminating the whole countryside and their deadly brilliance forced us to lie motionless for minutes which seemed like hours. Barking dogs and baying jackasses also threatened to betray our creeping progress.

The whole venture was like the Hollywood conception of war. It had never been done by so many before on this front.

Tonight after 24 hours and at a point three miles behind the German lines, I still can hardly believe the venture was successful.

The highest officers of this unit learned of the project only two hours before they left their lines. But the men of this mission are wise in ways of war and tough missions and were ready at a moment's notice.

"This is the kind of job you know best how to do," their commander told them in a brief, matter-of-fact discussion in the bivouac area. "You learned mountain fighting the hard way. This is the biggest infiltration job of this war and I want it done right."

"There will be no rifle firing, regardless. Have your rifle magazines filled but I don't want a single cartridge in a gun chamber. We are going through a town like—, understand?"

The men understood. A couple of hours later as they plodded nearer the front, the word went down the column: "No smoking, pass it along."

At the final assembly area where the men split up into companies, the word was repeated down our column which was spearheading the advance:

"No more talking, pass it along."

That was shortly before midnight. From then on, only the faintest whispers were heard while we walked and crawled 15 twisting miles in order to gain three as the crow flies, behind the German lines.

It was a nightmarish evening of constant chatter of vicious German machine-pistols on all sides; of slipping past a German sentry who sleepily permanently propped against a tree; of occasionally heart-rending cries of the wounded of foe and friend. We literally crawled through the combat sector.

Muscles ached, nerves were tense, feet burned, exhaustion was complete. Behind us, other units eliminated dozens of Germans who were within a few feet of where we passed.

But dawn found us dug in foxholes, high in the Alban hills. Some of the Americans soon were atop Mount Peschio's 3,000 foot height.

All day long soldiers have been delousing these heights, cleaning out snipers, machine-guns and fluted enemy patrols which already are trying frantically to fight their way out of the trap.

Already hundreds of prisoners have been taken. It looks from up here as if encircled Velletri is soon due to fall to Fifth Army troops.

Behind us, German machine-pistols are rattling along the still hard-fought front.

Allied Air Bases In China Menaced

New Jap Offensive Gathers Momentum and Expanding But Lull Comes To Fighting With Americans on Jungle Islands

By J. B. KRUEGER
(By The Associated Press)

Japan's great China offensive today appeared on the verge of expansion into a four-front battle aimed at wiping out new Allied air bases now virtually dominating enemy shipping along the Chinese coast.

From Chungking unofficial reports said the Japanese were massing in Indo-China, possibly for a drive on Kunming, U. S. air base on the Burma Road. From Honan Province came news indicating the invaders were gathering for a new offensive, perhaps against Chungking.

Supremacy in Air
Airpower forged by Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault was the only weapon in which the poorly-equipped Chinese had an edge. Associated Press war correspondent, Clyde A. Farnsworth, visited the new Chinese-American Composite Wing (CACW) in Honan and reported this small air group already had thrown a wrench into Japanese plans.

Lull on Islands
The fiercely-resisted American drive against Mokmer Airfield on Biak Island off Dutch New Guinea was in a lull, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported today. Snipers and small enemy forces were being cleared out to make way for a renewed U. S. effort to capture the field, 880 miles from the Philippines.

The unauthorized walkout of members of the AFL Amalgamated Street and Electric Railway and Motor Coach employees was blamed on an overtime pay controversy.

Virtually every private automobile was pressed into service as soon as word of the transportation tie-up spread through the city and police described traffic as "worse than before the war."

Police in the suburbs stopped automobiles at main intersections, informed drivers of the strike and asked them to fill their cars with passengers on their way downtown.

BULLET-PROOF GLASS PANELS PUT IN TANKS

TOLEDO, June 1.—(AP)—New-type observation panels of laminated plate glass are being installed in Allied tanks to permit tank commanders to view battle action without exposing themselves to enemy fire, the Libby-Owens Glass Co., maker of the panels, reported today.

The panels allow commanders to keep the hatch closed and still have a full circle of unobstructed vision. Known technically as prismatic viewing blocks, the panels were described as resistant to all high velocity projectiles except armor-piercing shells.

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE

I have been watching with interest the development of that miniature park in front of Dr. I. L. Humphrey's office on Market Street.

Several years ago Doc planted a Northern Spruce, two low-growing junipers and some barberry in the grassplot, or rather the barren spot between the sidewalk and curb.

Year by year, in spite of the carelessness of the public and the abuse suffered as result of such carelessness, the little park has been growing. It is a very attractive bit of landscaping right in the heart of the city.

Washington, C. H. has a mighty big quota of surgical dressings to make by next fall—123,000—of them.

And that many dressings means plenty of women will be needed every day in the Memorial Hall surgical dressing headquarters. True, the dressings are hard to make. True, your back aches after an hour and a half or so. But, it is also true that these little gauze squares are needed more desperately now than at any other period in the war.

Invasion is looming. Advances in Italy are being made steadily, but with a terrific toll of wounded and dead, all of whom need medical help with plenty of those little gauze squares. So if you haven't already, take off one or two afternoons a week—all of them if you can—and go to Memorial Hall to help. You are needed and wanted up there, for the more busy fingers there are folding and shaping the dressings, the sooner they will be completed and on their way to the fighting fronts where they are so essential.

20 PASSENGERS INJURED WHEN BUS HITS BRIDGE

SIDNEY, June 1.—(AP)—A Greyhound bus struck a bridge abutment on the Dixie Highway north of here early today and 20 persons were injured, five of them seriously, Sheriff Truman Pitts reported.

Pitts said the southbound Detroit-Cincinnati bus hit an automobile, parked beside the highway because of a flat tire, and veered into the bridge. The accident occurred four miles north of here about 4 A. M.

Thousand Rescued From Liberty Ship

Vessel Bringing Sailors Home from War Service in South Pacific Runs on Rocks 30 Miles Outside of San Francisco's Golden Gate, No Casualties Aboard

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.—(AP)—The sea today was pounding the Liberty ship, Henry Bergh, to pieces on the rocks of Farallone Island, 30 miles west of the Golden Gate, but her more than 1,000 Navy passengers were safe.

The 10,500-ton vessel ran ashore in fog and rain at dawn yesterday while bringing the sailors home from war service in the South Pacific.

PAYROLL RACKET TOP IN SHIPYARD FRACAS

Workers Are Charged With Defrauding Government

BOSTON, June 1.—(AP)—U. S. Attorney Edmund J. Brandon charged today that many of the 137 Hingham Shipyard workers arrested yesterday in what he described as the "worst payroll racket of the war" had "taken advantage of their snug positions as recipients of special determinations" by their draft boards.

Most of the arrested men, charged either with conspiracy to defraud the government, or with presenting false claims, were within the draft age, Brandon said.

Most of the arrested men posted bail of $500 to $1,000, and their cases were postponed for hearings late this month and early in July.

HORSES' KICK FATAL

PORTSMOUTH, June 1.—(AP)—Ten-year-old Charles Cooper of near Oak Hill died yesterday after having been kicked by a horse while he was riding his pony.

A German submarine stopped the neutral Portuguese refugee ship Serpa Pinto off Bermuda on a clear dark night and a calm sea last Friday, took two prisoners and warned the 385 crew members and passengers the ship would be sunk.

Rescue operations were orderly, and the navy said there were no reports of casualties among the men, hundreds of whom floated in life jackets or rode rafts until picked up by patrol boats.

So swiftly were rescue operations put into effect the majority of the men were removed directly from the grounded transport to patrol boats. Others made the shores of the small islands. All were brought to San Francisco.

Distress signals from the Henry Bergh were heard first at 5 A. M. Robert Klars, 24, of Minneapolis, said that when the alarm sounded "my first thought was that in the fog and darkness we had hit another vessel."

"But the skipper told us in a good natured calm voice over the speaker system that we had gone aground and directed us to get off the ship in rafts and boats," Klars said. "The water was covered with oil and was cold as hell."

The navy reported the transport was breaking "into pieces rapidly." Efforts were speeded to salvage all possible material.

The Henry Bergh, operating under private charter as a transport, was built in 1942 at a Henry J. Kaiser yard at Richmond, Calif., and was owned by the war shipping administration.

One of those who fled the ship, Tony Ribeiro, who came to the U. S. to go into business with his brother, David, of Gloucester, Mass., said:

"I was asleep in my cabin when the Nazis came aboard. The life-

BALKANS READY TO OPEN ATTACK WITH INVASION

Desperate Germans Battle Savagely To Slow Drive Of Allies in Italy

By RICHARD McMURRAY
(By The Associated Press)

American doughboys cracked into the Valmontone line and saw Rome today across 15 hazy miles from heights in the Alban hills, captured in a stoutly contested advance of nearly two miles which by-passed ruined Velletri.

British troops and armor on the right captured Frosinone, provincial capital of 20,000, and highway junction 54 miles southeast of Rome. New Zealanders toppled Sora on the escape highway No. 82 and pounded swiftly ahead toward Avezzano, 34 miles away. The French captured Capineto and cleared out the Lepini hills.

All along the 100-mile meandering front from the Tyrrhenian to north of Cassino, the Allies advanced and the German positions deteriorated by the minute. The German fought with skill and a determination born of desperation, for he was making a supreme effort to save the 20 divisions of his 10th and 14th armies, now imminently imperiled by the deep wedge thrown into the last defense shield before Rome. The Germans said Velletri had been abandoned after violent street fighting.

Invasion Area Blasted

The night shift of 500 or more British bombers turned the French invasion coast into an inferno of bursting bombs and fire and tangled three rail centers of Trappes, Tergnier and Saumur, 16 to 150 miles from Paris. Probably 2,240 tons of bombs were deposited in operations costing eight planes. Other Britons flying from Italy snarled up two tracks beside the rapids of the Iron Gate of the Danube.

The Mediterranean air forces flew 2,800 sorties yesterday destroying 43 planes, losing 14 heavy bombers and nine fighters. In May, a staggering bomb weight was hurled on the Germans from 148,000 planes. Americans alone destroyed 1,072 of the Luftwaffe at the cost of 611.

The Russians said they shot down 164 German aircraft and knocked out 122 tanks in two days north of Iasi in Romania where the worried Germans left "thousands of dead" before Russian lines in vain attempts to throw the Soviet offensive plans off balance. Moscow said the Germans advanced not "a single step" yesterday.

Balkans Set for Attack

June—perhaps the most fateful month of the war—began with an air attack on the Germans' channel front defenses so terrific it shook the English coast, while at the opposite end of Hitler's uneasy European siege stand, Marshal Tito ordered his Yugoslavs into an all-out attack, and Turkey was reported likely to move into war at the Allies' invasion signal.

Marshal Tito's order of the day called for a decisive assault "particularly now when the last blow of the Red army and Anglo-American Allied troops is approaching," and his communique announced capture of an enemy base in Dalmatia and hard blows along the whole Nazi line.

SHOCK FATAL TO DRIVER OF CAR THAT HITS GIRL

James Woodland Dies After Janice Streitenberger Struck Wednesday

John Woodland, 84, died of a heart attack Wednesday about 6 P. M. but the little girl whom he had struck with his car a few minutes before survived without serious injury.

Janice Streitenberger, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Streitenberger, received only body bruises and lacerations. She had darted into the street from an alley beside the John Jones home in Bloomingburg. The accident was described as unavoidable.

Woodland got out of his car and carried Janice to the Jones lawn where her cuts were washed with water from a faucet in the yard. It was there that Woodland suffered the fatal heart attack. Dr. N. M. Reiff, coroner, said shock was the cause of death. Woodland had previously consulted Dr. Reiff for a heart ailment, it was said.

Woodland, who had lived in Bloomingburg for 43 years, was a prominent Paint Township farmer and had for years been a barber as well. He was a member of the Bloomingburg Methodist Church.

Surviving are his widow, one daughter, Mrs. Walter Palmer of Hudson, one son, Frank, racing secretary at Saratoga Springs, New York and two grandchildren also survive. He was the last survivor of a family of 12 children.

Funeral services will be Saturday at 2 P. M. at the residence on West Street in Bloomingburg with Rev. J. H. Baughn, pastor of the Bloomingburg Methodist Church in charge.

Burial will be in the family lot of the Bloomingburg Cemetery under the direction of the Hook Funeral Home. Friends may call at the residence after 10 A. M. Friday.

Nazis in Squeeze
The crack in the Valmontone line in Italy imperiled the German retreat in the center, because the enemy had been using the 25-mile sector as a hinge to extricate his tired and mauled troops to the southeast. Captured towns included San Giovanni, Patricia, Ripi and Torrice.

Britons on the coast advanced steadily north of Ardea toward the Tiber. In "limited but important" gains, the Fifth Army near Lanuvio crossed the Fosso di Campoleone, a drainage ditch. Other units pushed nearer Valmontone itself, 20 miles from Rome on the interdicted Via Cassilina. Tactical aircraft flew around the clock shattering German lines of retreat and shattering forward positions.

The fall of Rome appeared a matter of days.

Germans Fighting
The Berlin radio asserted today that 15 Allied divisions, five of them tank, were concentrated in French North Africa for an attack on southern France.

The official DNB dispatch said the 10 infantry and five tank divisions will enter the battle scene in conjunction with Gen. Eisenhower's invasion of the west coast of Europe. The troops were said to include Moroccan and Algerian units.

The report said it was possible the Allied command would turn the liberated French island of Corsica, which lies within 103 miles of continental France, into a grand style invasion springboard. The Germans speculated that the Italian Riviera also might be an invasion objective.

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

With furious fighting proceeding only fifteen miles from Rome—so close that at one point today our doughboys could see the dome of old St. Peter's—it's small wonder that world anxiety for the Italian capital's welfare should intensify.

The Allies have made it clear they will do their utmost to preserve the eternal city, which not only houses the Holy See but whose site was inhabited as far back as Neolithic days and thus is one of the earliest milestones in the progress of mankind. What the Nazis may do is another matter.

When Pope Pius appealed to the Allied and German leaders March 12 to spare Rome from becoming a battleground, Secretary of State Hull said the Allies hoped this could be done. Hull added that the blame would be on the Germans if Rome did suffer. President Roosevelt a few days later, in a note to Premier De Valera of Eire, said substantially the same thing. The latest Allied statement was by British Prime Minister Churchill last week when he declared:

"We have great hopes that the city of Rome will be preserved from the struggle of our armies."

Churchill didn't explain this seemingly optimistic forecast. We know the Allies will do their best to shield Rome but, as he remarked, it's impossible to forecast what the Germans may do on their retreat from Italy "in the way of destruction to a people they hate and despise."

Perhaps the prime minister's view was based on the thought that the Germans may not try to hold Rome—not because of desire to spare the city but to save their own skins. I don't believe the present determined resistance by the Nazis in the powerful defenses of the Alban foothills below Rome is in itself proof that they intend to hang on to a finish.

Whatever German Field Marshal Kesselring may intend to do about holding Rome, he has no choice at this juncture but to defend the approaches to the city until he has rescued as many as he can of his mauled forces which are retreating along bombed roads, all of which lead to Rome. The capital is the hub of Italy's highways and railways. He must clear his Army through there to reach new defenses to the north. If the Allies should occupy Rome now, great numbers of German troops would be cut off.

Hitler's propagandists are informing their public—and the world—that the Nazis will withdraw to the north of Rome—that its occupation by the Allies doesn't matter. One looks for catches in enemy propaganda. But this might mean what it says. One good reason may lie here:

Berlin itself is predicting a possible Allied landing on the Italian coast above Rome from the island of Corsica. Such an invasion, if successful, would cut Kesselring off from the north and might result in annihilation of virtually his entire force. Hitler couldn't afford that.

FAIRFIELD BANK BUYS BUILDING FOR $12,000

No Local Bids Placed on Old P. & D. Structure Here Thursday

When the old Peoples and Drivers Bank building, 142 East Court Street, was offered at bankrupt sale, under an order of the U. S. District Court, Thursday at 10 A. M., not a single bid was placed on the structure by local citizens, and the building was sold, provisionally, to the Fairfield National Bank of Lancaster on a bid of $12,000.

D. R. Kincaid, trustee in bankruptcy for the Civil Loan Co., conducted the sale, and Frank Bennett, attorney for the referee in bankruptcy, was also present. The building had been appraised at $12,500. Bennett stated. It also was announced that it would be sold free of incumbrance, and that the Fairfield National Bank held a $25,000 blanket mortgage on the property.

Kincaid offered the building for sale on the site. A number of local business and professional men and others were present with a view to making a bid on the structure, or watching the sale.

In opening the sale, Kincaid stated that the Fairfield National Bank had placed a bid of $12,000 on the property and when call for bids was made, not a single offer was made above that figure.

After waiting for two or three minutes for bids, the bid of the bank was declared the highest and the matter ended.

The bid is subject to approval by the U. S. District Court.

The structure was purchased by the Civil Loan Co. when it opened offices in the structure a

Highland Takes Action To Reduce Expenses

(Special to the Record-Herald)

HILLSBORO, June 1—Highland County Commissioners have abolished the position of case-work supervisor, aid to dependent children and aid to the blind, positions held by Mrs. Lena Stodgel, at a salary of $165 per month.

The work is to be carried on by Mrs. Elizabeth Caldwell, County Visitor, and Mrs. Roy H. Bunn, clerk.

Probate Judge Orland Roades said the action was taken as an economy measure and because it is believed that with the number of cases now being handled the work can be done by the other two officials.

The State Civil Service Commission, in approving action of the commissioners, stated that if the offices are re-established within a year, Mrs. Stodgel would be at the head of the eligible list to be certified to the office.

Mrs. Stodgel has held the position for seven years.

AMERICAN U STEEL FENCE POSTS

The Ideal Fence Post

These remarkably strong posts provide an excellent foundation for your fence lines. Good looking too, because of their attractive Willow Green finish of steel paint which is baked on under a high temperature. Note carefully the following points:

- 1 The Channel or U-shaped design assures the utmost rigidity. That's the reason this type of section is used in bridges and ship building. In its modified form—this shape makes an unusually serviceable and attractive fence post.
- 2 The closely spaced notches of Ideal Posts (only 3/4 of an inch apart) make it possible to fasten any wire just where it crosses the post.
- 3 The one-piece slit wing anchor plate packs the dirt against the sides holding it firmly in place. Truly—it anchors like a rock.
- 4 A bag of 25 clamps with each bundle of 5 posts.

Pacific Warfare

Those who have been watching the progress of American fighting forces in the south and central Pacific have been amazed at the success so far attained by United States land, air and sea combat units.

As progress is made toward Japan, however, it is to be expected that the fighting will grow more difficult. In spite of the relatively light resistance in many of the recent Pacific engagements, it seems probable that the days of "fanatical" Jap defense are by no means ended. Wakde Island fighting has proved that and gives promise of plenty more stiff battles between present Allied positions and Tokyo. However, Wakde Island also proved that the Japs are paying a terrible price in defending the island they have been holding.

It took two days for the American landing force to win Wakde after the little two-by-three mile island had been subjected to a pounding that sounds even fiercer than what Cassino received. Almost 2000 tons of bombs were dropped on it before the actual operation started. This was followed with a day-and-night blasting by ship and land artillery, and by heavy, medium and fighter bombers.

But a battalion of Japs survived to fight with every crafty trick in their book. They sniped from caves, pillboxes and treetops. They infiltrated into our lines in the uniforms of fallen American soldiers.

It was fierce, suicidal fighting. It delayed the taking of a small but important objective. But when the firing ceased not one of the seasoned defenders remained alive.

How long can Tojo afford to pay these prices in order to delay the inevitable? The force on Wakde was small, to be sure, but the total casualties in these last-man stands are growing more impressive. In the month following the Hollandia landing, April 22, American killed 76 Japs for every one of our men lost.

It should be apparent to Tojo that, for many months now there has been no question of the outcome of his engagements against the Americans. Adm. Halsey was not speaking idly when he announced "the virtual completion of the Pacific campaign, except for mopping-up and starving-out operations."

The Japs are up against superior equipment. They are being outfought on land and sea and in the air.

The Japs in Burma have discovered how well they taught their American adversaries the trick of jungle fighting on Guadalcanal and the Papuan peninsula.

All this has happened in the "beat Hitler first" phase of the war against Japan. Surely no amount of fanaticism or boasting can now ease Tojo's mind as he contemplates the full weight of Allied might that is coming later.

Future American Bases

The United States, which has spent approximately $1,500,000,000 for air bases over the world, is already well entrenched in the Pacific and should be in an excellent position to trade rights with any other nation for air rights elsewhere.

tians this nation dominates the eastern half of the Pacific. Nations desiring to send planes this way from the west can do so by granting reciprocal rights.

The Atlantic is a different story. American air rights in that area are the subject of growing concern in Congress. This country's submarine deal bases in the West Indies, Bermuda, Newfoundland and elsewhere may be used commercially by the United States and Britain by mutual agreement. It is expected most Latin American countries will extend leases for American air bases there.

But it is Britain that is entrenched in the eastern Atlantic and the Indian Ocean. This nation has no permanent rights anywhere in Africa, Europe, India, the East Indies or Australia. Britain, it is alleged, has begun to pay this country for the bases constructed in Africa and India.

The United States has so many exclusive bases of its own and is itself so important on the airways that it is inconceivable that other nations do not grant this nation rights on any continent it desires to traverse.

Infantile Scurvy a Rare Condition

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

IN A HOSPITAL where I am allowed by the authorities to see some of the patients occasionally we had the other day two patients who had a very rare condition—a vitamin deficiency—infantile scurvy. In spite of all the ballyhoo you hear about the widespread frequency and dangers of vitamin deficiency, these patients were such curiosities that all the staff members were especially invited to see them. They were shown to both the senior and junior classes of medical students, because they might not get a chance to see another case, at least for a long time.

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

There had been one other case of scurvy in the hospital this winter—an adult. And it was quite a curiosity too. And remember this is in a hospital where about 25,000 individuals are taken care of a year. Yet in all that number this is the only adult whose trouble was diagnosed as a vitamin deficiency.

The cases are worth considering at length because they represent some mistakes that even yet occur in the managements of these conditions. Scurvy is the result of lack of Vitamin C in the diet. Vitamin C is found best in fresh citrus fruits—orange juice, lemon juice, lime juice, grapefruit and tomatoes and some other vegetables. The fresh, or raw, fruit or juice must be used: cooking very largely destroys Vitamin C. Important for those who howl about a daily intake of vitamins is this passage from Meakin's Practice of Medicine: "If Vitamin C be absent from the diet for a period of six continuous weeks symptoms of scurvy are to be expected. A small amount of the vitamin intermittently may prevent it." In other words, it is sufficient to have some lemon juice or orange juice or tomato juice once a month.

For babies, however, a daily dose of fresh orange juice or tomato juice had best be added to the regular feedings. The medical profession have been trying to teach mothers that for years and the fact that infantile scurvy is so rarely met with is an indication of the success of the educational campaign.

In the case of one of the babies of whom I am writing, it was impossible to obtain any kind of intelligible dietary history from the family; we do not know what the baby got for food except by inference. Incidentally it looked quite fat and well nourished except for the signs of scurvy. But plenty of sugar in the diet will do that.

Symptoms of Scurvy

In the other case, and this is really pitiful, the mother had been giving the baby a kind of orange extract from a bottle. It was evidently old and stale, or the processing of the extract had removed all the Vitamin C. But the mother had heard sufficient of the modern health preaching to know that the baby should have orange juice, but hadn't been impressed with the fact that it had to be fresh.

Since about 1910, when the action of the vitamins was discovered, mothers have been so educated to the necessity of adding fresh fruit juices to the baby's regular feeding that infantile scurvy has almost disappeared. So much so that when a sporadic case or two, such as I have mentioned, appears doctors are so unfamiliar with it they do not recognize it. Usually the cases are mistaken for rheumatism, because the ends of the baby's bones are sore and it cries when it is picked up. In one of the cases I just saw the gums bled and the dentist pulled two teeth in the mistaken impression that they were to blame. Fortunately they were only the temporary teeth.

"CALAMITY TOWN" by ELLERY QUEEN

©1943 LITTLE, BROWN & CO. DISTRIBUTED BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

That night they were all sitting on the Wright porch watching the wind blow the leaves across the lawn. John F. and Jim were debating the presidential campaign with some heat. Ellery sat by himself in a corner, smoking.

"John, you know I don't like these political arguments," said Hermie. "Goodness, you men get so hot under the collar—"

Jim grinned. "All right, Mother!" Then he said casually: "Oh, by the way, darling, I got a letter from my sister Rosemary this morning. Forgot to tell you."

"Yes?" Nora's tone was bright. "How nice. What does she write, dear?"

Pat drifted toward Ellery and sat down at his feet.

"The usual stuff. She does say she'd like to meet you—all of you."

"Well, I should think so!" declared Hermie. "I'm very anxious to meet your sister, Jim. Is she coming for a visit?"

"Well... I was thinking of asking her, but—"

"Now, Jim," said Nora. "You know I've asked you dozens of times to invite Rosemary to Wrightsville."

"Then it's all right with you, Nor?" asked Jim.

"All right!" Nora laughed. "What's the matter with you? Give me her address and I'll drop her a note tonight."

"Don't bother, darling. I'll write her myself."

When they were alone, a half hour later, Pat said to Ellery: "Nora was scared."

"Yes. It's a poser." Ellery circled his knees with his arms. "Of course, the letter that stirred Jim up this morning was the same letter he just said he got from his sister."

"Ellery, Jim's holding something back."

"No question about it."

"If sister Rosemary just wrote about wanting to come for a visit, or anything as trivial as that... why did Jim burn her letter?"

Mr. Queen kept silent for a long time. Finally he mumbled: "Go to bed, Patty. I want to think."

On the morning of November 8th, Jim Haight's sister, Rosemary, came to Wrightsville. Ellery Queen saw her get off the train at the Wrightsville station, and trip over to Jim and kiss him, and turn to Nora with animation, presenting a spruce cheek; Mr. Queen also saw the two women laugh and chatter as Jim and the porter picked up the visitor's smart luggage and made for Jim's car.

And Ellery's weather eye clouded over. That night, at Nora's, he had an opportunity to test his first barometric impression.

Soon he decided that Rosemary Haight was no bucolic maiden on an exciting journey; that she was pure metropolis. Also, she was menacingly attractive. Hermie, Pat, and Nora disliked her instantly; Ellery could tell that from the extreme politeness with which they treated her. As for John F., he was charmed and spryly gallant. Hermie reproached him in the silent language of the eye...

Ellery spent a troubled night trying to put Miss Rosemary Haight together in the larger puzzle, and not succeeding.

Jim was busy at the bank these days and left the entertaining of his sister to Nora. Dutifully Nora drove Rosemary about the countryside, showing her the "sights." It was a little difficult for Nora to sustain the charming-hostess illusion, since Rosemary had a supercilious attitude towards many things.

Then there was the gantlet of the town's ladies to run... teas for the guest, an ambitious mah-jongg party, a wiener roast on the lawn one moonlit night, a church social... The ladies were told. Emmeline DuPré said Rosemary Haight had a streak of "commerce," whatever that was; Clarice Martin thought her clothes too "you-know," and Mrs. Mackenzie at the Country Club said she was a—well, just look at those silly men drooling at her!

The Wright women found themselves constrained to defend her, which was less than she deserved, for she secretly they agreed to the truth of all the charges.

"I wish she'd leave," said Pat to Ellery a few days after Rosemary's arrival. "Isn't that a horrid thing to say? But I do. And now she's sent for her trunk!"

"But I thought she didn't like it here."

"That's what I can't understand, either. Nora says it was supposed to be a 'flying' visit, but Rosemary acts as if she means to dig in for the winter. And Nora can't very well discourage her."

"What's Jim say?"

"Nothing to Nora, but—" Pat lowered her voice and looked around—"apparently he's said something to Rosemary, because I happened in this morning and there was Nora trapped in the serving pantry while Jim and Rosemary, who evidently thought Nora was upstairs, were having an argument in the dining room. That woman has a temper!"

"What was the argument about?" asked Ellery.

"I came in at the tail end and didn't hear anything important, but Nora says it was... well, frightening. Nora wouldn't tell me what she'd heard, but she was terribly upset—she looked the way she does when she reads those letters that tumbled out of the toxicology book."

Rosemary Haight's trunk arrived the next day. Steve Polaris, who ran the local express agency, delivered the trunk himself—an overgrown affair that looked as if it might be packed with imported evening gowns. Steve lugged it up Nora's walk on his broad back. Mr. Queen and Pat who were watching from the Wright porch, saw him carry it into Nora's house and come out a few minutes later accompanied by Rosemary, who was wearing a candid red, white, and blue negligee.

Ellery and Pat saw Rosemary sign Steve's receipt book and go back into the house. As Steve slouched down the walk grinning, Ellery said suddenly: "Pat, do you know this truckman well?"

"Steve? That's the only way you can know him."

Steve tossed his receipt book on the driver's seat of his truck and began to climb in.

"Then distract him. Right now! Get him out of sight of that truck for two minutes!"

Pat instantly called: "Oh, Steve—e-e-e!" and tripped down the porch steps. Ellery followed in a saunter. No one was in sight anywhere on the Hill.

Pat was slipping her arm through Steve's, saying something about her piano, and there wasn't a man who knew strong enough to move it from where it was to where she wanted it, and of course when she saw Steve...

Steve went with Pat into the Wright house, visibly pleased.

Ellery was at the truck in two bounds. He snatched the receipt book from the front seat. Then he took a piece of charred paper from his wallet and began riffling the pages of the book...

When Pat reappeared with Steve, Mr. Queen was at Hermie's sinia bed surveying the blossoms of the sadness of a poet. Steve gave him a scornful look and passed on. "I was wrong," mumbled Ellery. "About what?"

"About Rosemary. My hunch was: This woman Rosemary doesn't seem cut from the same cloth as Jim Haight. They don't seem like brother and sister at all—"

"Ellery!"

"Oh, it was possible. But... she is his sister."

"And you proved that through Steve's truck? Wonderful!"

"Through his receipt book, in which this woman just signed her name. I have the real Rosemary Haight's signature, you'll recall, my dear Watson."

"On that charred flap of envelope we found in Jim's study—the remains of his sister's letter that he'd burned!"

"Precisely, my dear Watson. And the signature 'Rosemary Haight' on the flap of the letter and the 'Rosemary Haight' in Steve's receipt book are the work of the same hand."

"Leaving us," remarked Pat dryly, "exactly where we were."

"No," said Mr. Queen with a faint smile. "Before we only believed this woman was Jim's sister. Now we know it."

The longer Rosemary Haight stayed at Nora's, the more inexplicable the woman became. Jim was busy at the bank; sometimes he did not even come home to dinner. Yet Rosemary did not seem to mind her brother's neglect half so much as her sister-in-law's attentions. Towards Pat and Hermie, Rosemary was less obvious. She rattled on about her "travels"—Panama, Rio, Honolulu, Bali, Bant, surf riding, skiing, mountain climbing, and "exciting" men—much talk about "exciting" men—until the ladies of the Wright family began to look harried and grim...

Yet Rosemary stayed on.

Why? Mr. Queen was pondering this poser as he sat one morning in the window seat of his workroom. Rosemary Haight had just come out of her brother's house a cigaret at an acute angle to her red lips, clad in jodhpurs, red Russian boots and a form-fitting sweater. She stood on the porch for a moment, slapping a crop against her boots with impatience. Then she strode off into the woods behind the Wright grounds.

Pat took Ellery driving; and he told her about seeing the Haight woman enter the woods in a minding habit.

Pat turned into the broad concrete of Route 16, driving slowly. "Bored," she said. "Bored blue. She got Jake Bushmill the blacksmith to dig her up a saddle horse—yesterday was her first day out, and Carmel Pettigrew saw her tearing along the dirt road toward Twin Hill like—I quote—one of the Valkyries. Carmel thinks Rosemary's just too-too."

"And you?" queried Mr. Queen. "That panther laziness of hers is an act—underneath, she's the restlessness type, and hard as teak. Or don't you think so?" Pat glanced at him sideways.

"She's attractive," said Ellery evasively.

Later, Pat dove in silence for some time. Then she said: "What do you make of the whole thing, Ellery: Jim's conduct, Rosemary, the three letters, the visit, Rosemary's staying on when she hates it—Ellery—look!"

NEW YORK, June 1—(AP)—Germans preparing to evacuate Rome are cleaning out the Italian capital's food and merchandise stores according to a Spanish correspondent's report broadcast from Madrid last night by CBS.

Lady Nearly Choked Due to Stomach Gas

One lady said she used to be afraid to go to bed. She was swollen with stomach gas and the gas would rise up in her throat after she lay down and would nearly choke her. Had to prop herself up on pillows to breathe. Recently this lady got ERB-HELP and now says gas is gone, stomach feels fine, bowels are regular and she can sleep soundly.

ERB-HELP contains 12 Great Herbs; so don't suffer! Get this new medicine—Finley's Drug Store.

DES MOINES, Iowa—There's a saying around these parts: If you want to find a Democrat, go to Dubuque." One of that, of course, is mere facetiousness. The Democrats in 1938 were able to muster 413,788 votes to the Republicans' 410,983 to put the present Sen. Guy M. Gillett in office.

That year, too, they had two of the state's nine congressmen. In 1940, there was no senatorial race and although the state went Republican, two Democratic congressmen held on. In 1942, Sen. George A. Wilson, scored 410,000 votes to his Democratic opponent's 295,000.

That year also, the Republican congressmen all won by majorities of from 15,000 to 25,000. There wasn't a race in any district that was close. The Republicans claim his trend has continued unabated. There is no reason to disbelieve them, according to the most impartial observers here. Iowa looks not only solidly Republican but solidly for Thomas E. Dewey for president.

WILLIS YORK, hulking Madrid, Iowa, manufacturer who is chairman of the Republican state central committee, and R. E. Hill, the committee's executive secretary-treasurer, are predicting the state will go Republican by 150,000 to 200,000 votes. Such claims this far in advance of election and even before the conventions have been held don't count for much ordinarily, but I have been able to find very few here, even in Democratic ranks, who will do more than argue over the size of the predicted majority.

Those who do more than that, of course, count on the President and Vice President Henry A. Wallace, a native son, to come through again with an even larger vote than in 1940; giving as their reasons the need of continuance of the war under its present leadership and better conditions in the grass roots than they have enjoyed in a generation.

There are some whisperings, no more than that, that Gov. Dewey is no farmer and doesn't understand farm problems. Dewey backers laugh that off and say, "wait until the whisperers start hearing about Gov. Dewey's Owosso, Mich., kinkofks and schoolboy playmates."

SOME think, too, that a vice presidential candidate may be named who does have a farm background and admit that it might help if the second man on the ticket could at least turn a furrow.

One strange thing that I have found in talking with politicians through the east and middle west, as well as some of the non-professionals, is unanimous certainty that Roosevelt and Dewey will be the two nominees and the almost utter indifference to who will be named for the No. 2 spot on either party ticket.

In the grass roots, it's Dewey or Roosevelt and only a feeble interest in anybody else.

YOUTH PROGRAM OF YMCA WILL BE ABANDONED

Softball Leagues To Stay; But Supervised Play Is Discontinued

Supervised play at Gardner Park will not be included in the summer YMCA youth program, Walter Patton, chairman of the YMCA board said today. The softball leagues will be carried out as scheduled, however, he added.

With the possibility of a city park in the offing where most youngsters will go for their day-time play, the Y decided to discontinue the supervision at Gardner Park, Patton explained.

Since the Y board has agreed to turn over $5000 to the Rotary Club for purchase of Perry's Park, little money remains in the treasury, and that will go for the softball league, Patton said.

Last summer, Miss Amelia Pensyl and George Miraben were supervisors for the play periods. Miraben this year is mentor for the softball program, a post he filled last summer.

He and Miss Pensyl worked alternately at the field house, which was equipped with a juke box, a soft drink vending machine, ping pong tables and dancing facilities. The tennis courts were used as well during the year.

However, "not many more than a dozen youngsters showed up at any one time" and that, plus the depleted purse, makes the program impractical this year, especially in view of the park project now under the wing of the Rotary Club, Patton said.

The decision to discontinue the program was reached by the summer activities committee of the Y board, of which Robert A. Craig is chairman.

TWO FROM HERE TO GRADUATE FROM OSU

Two Washington C. H. students will be among 440 to be graduated from Ohio State University Saturday in the university's 67th annual commencement. Miss Ruth L. Jeanne Usher Woollard Becomes Bride On Wednesday Of Lt. (j.g.) John L. Chynoweth, U. S. Naval Reserve

Beautiful Ceremony Held At Presbyterian Church Wednesday Evening

Miss Jeanne Usher Woollard, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Fred D. Woollard, of 331 Rawlings Street, this city, was united in marriage Wednesday evening to Lt. (j.g.) John L. Chynoweth, son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Chynoweth of Springfield.

The formal open church wedding was held in the First Presbyterian Church. Officiating at the eight o'clock ceremony was Rev. John K. Abernethy, pastor of the church. Preceding the exchange of vows a program of appropriate nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Ralph Gage at the organ and Miss Nancy Williamson, of Cedarville, vocal soloist.

The altar of the church, which was decorated by Mrs. Lizzie Buck, was banked with an attractive arrangement of white carnations and greenery, while four seven-branch candelabras were placed about the church altar.

The bride approached the altar on the arm of her father, being preceded by four ushers, the two bridesmaids, the matron of honor and the junior bridesmaid.

Ushers at the ceremony were Messrs. Frederick R. Woollard of Port Williams, Miron J. Williamson of Cedarville and Cadets Don Miller and Edward Ball of Ohio State University, Columbus.

Performing the duties of best man was Dr. Clinton Glazer of the Cincinnati General Hospital.

The bridesmaids, Miss Ruth Jane Sexton, of this city, and Mrs. Theodore Kirkby of Toledo, wore identically made gowns of pale blue chiffon, with a sweetheart neckline, long torso and full skirt. They wore small heart-shaped floral locket, the gift of the bride and carried colonial bouquets of yellow roses, stock and greenery from which fell a dainty arrangement of yellow organza. A chic calot of pale blue was the head covering and tiny bows of the same material were the only trim.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Miron J. Williamson of Cedarville, the bride's sister, wore a floor length gown of pale blue chiffon, made with a sweetheart neckline, long torso and full skirt. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses, pink carnations and greenery from which fell a pale rose organza bow. Her hat was also made identically to those of the bridesmaids, and she wore a heart-shaped floral locket, the gift of the bride.

Miss Woollard was preceded down the aisle of the church by dainty little Miss Bryer Chynoweth of Springfield, sister of the bridegroom. She wore a floor-length white faille taffeta frock made with a square neckline, gathered yoke and brief puffed sleeves. Accentuating her adorable frock was a white faille taffeta bonnet which she wore on her dark tresses. She carried a colonial bouquet, a miniature of those of the bridesmaids and matron of honor.

The bride was a picture of youthful loveliness, wearing a traditional white faille taffeta wedding gown, fashioned with a dropped waistline and full train. The bodice of the gown was fashioned of white faille taffeta and an off-the-shoulder effect was created by a white lace ruffle, accentuating the sheer neckline. Her headdress was a flat bandeau fashioned of white satin and tied in a long bow in the back. Her veil of gorgeous white lace was arranged so as to frame her face and fell to her waistline in the back. The veil was a Hattie Carnegie original. She was carrying a large bridal bouquet of white rose buds which was centered with a single white orchid. From her bouquet fell slender white satin ribbons, entwined with greenery.

Immediately following the ceremony around one hundred and twenty-five guests assembled at the Washington Country Club where the reception for invited and out-of-town guests was held. For her daughter's wedding and the reception which followed, Mrs. Woollard wore a dusty pink floor-length gown of crepe, made with a sweetheart neckline and at the shoulder of her frock was pinned a corsage of yellow roses. Her accessories were of white.

Mrs. Chynoweth was wearing a floor-length gown of cherry red with which she combined accessories of chartreuse. Her small hat was trimmed with veiling of the same color and she wore elbow-length gloves of chartreuse. A corsage of gardenias adorned her shoulder.

The spacious lounge of the Country Club was beautifully decorated by Mrs. Buck, with arrangements of white carnations, pink roses and greenery greatly in evidence. Above the fireplace was an artistic arrangement of white carnations and greenery and at each end were tall white burning tapers.

The serving table was centered with a large three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. A hidden music box softly played the wedding march from Lohengrin just before the wedding cake was cut by the bride. She daintily performed the ceremony ably assisted by the bridegroom, then surrendered her place to Miss Frances Williamson. Presiding at the silver coffee services at each end of the long table was Miss Helen Simons and Miss Amelia Pensyl, assisted by a group of young women, all close friends of the bride.

A gay and enjoyable hour of informal visiting was prolonged until late in the evening, when the bride and bridegroom departed on a week's wedding trip through the south.

As the newly-weds left the reception the bride went to the balcony of the Country Club where she tossed her bridal bouquet to the guests below. Miss Frances Williamson, of Cedarville, caught the bouquet.

For going-away the bride changed to a chic street-length frock of light and dark shades of blue with which she wore a pink wool coat, white hat, gloves and purse. She pinned the white orchid taken from her bridal bouquet, to the shoulder of her coat.

The socially-prominent and beautiful young bride is a graduate of Ohio University, Athens, in 1941, where she became a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority. She is also a member of Phi Beta Psi social sorority in this city. Since her graduation from the university, she has been employed on the teaching staff of Cherry Hill grade school in this city.

Lt. (j.g.) Chynoweth was a graduate of Ohio State Dental School in 1943 and upon finishing schooling there went to the General Hospital, in Cincinnati, where he served his internship. After the honeymoon, the bridegroom will report to Farragut, Idaho, where he will be on active duty at the Naval Training Station. His bride plans to join him there to make their new home as soon as necessary arrangements are completed.

Out-of-town guests present at the wedding and reception were Mrs. Martha Abbott, Springfield; Mrs. E. P. Morse, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Williamson, Miss Mary Williamson, Misses Janet and Mildred Williamson, all of Cedarville; Mrs. Ralph Morris, Mrs. Robert Murphy of Sabina; Mrs. T. F. Myler, Mrs. John Sparks, Miss Eleanor Bone, all of Xenia; Mrs. John Lentz, Marysville and Miss Fisher of Marysville.

Earlier in the evening a rehearsal dinner was given by Dr. and Mrs. Woollard for members of the bridal party, following a final rehearsal held in the afternoon.

'THE TYRANT'S WAR' IS NEW TITLE FROM FDR

WASHINGTON, June 1—(AP)—President Roosevelt, who early in the war came up with the idea it be called "The war for survival," has another name for it now: "The tyrant's war."

He passed along the new suggestion at a news conference yesterday, saying he liked it very much. Another title he has recommended is "War of Liberation."

If you're the impatient type, never apply your second coat of nailpolish while the first is still wet. Instead apply one coat at night and one the next morning.

Dinner To Climax Bowling Season Here

A bowling season that has filled the past winter months with fun, relaxation from wartime tensions and plenty of keen competition will come to a climax Friday night with a big dinner for the members of the four leagues—two made up of women's teams and two of men's—at the Country Club.

Mrs. Angie Linkhart, proprietress of the Main Street alleys, will be the hostess of the evening.

Between 115 and 125 are expected to gather for the grand finale which will be featured by the presentation of trophies to the winners of the four league titles.

The season opened October 1 and continued for 35 weeks with a match a week for each of the 30 teams in the four loops. Because of deep interest and keen competition, there were few forfeits or postponements.

Mrs. Linkhart said the alleys would be opened during the week ends through June and that the doors would then be closed for the summer. She said she had plans not only for redecorating, but also for installing three more alleys back of the eight which have been jammed for the past several years. Getting materials is her chief obstacle. If the additional alleys are put in, Mrs. Linkhart said the whole floor plan would be changed so that bowling would be from the middle with alleys running east and west.

The Main Street alleys not only have been the scene of heated bowling battles among league teams but also a gathering place for older boys and girls from both city and county, who used the alleys not required by the league teams and the rather spacious lobby, with its soft drink bar and candy counter, for a meeting place.

The plugging boys from Mt.

Sterling nosed out the hard-hitting Coca Cola for the championship of the Men's City League.

Lloyd's Markettes came from behind with vengeance after mid-season to take the championship of the Women's City League by a substantial margin, while the Hawksworth Treaders edged out Light's Dairymaids, last year's titlists.

The Production crew took the honors in API Men's League, after displacing the Office Boys and Foremen in the closing weeks of the schedule.

The Aeronauts, who overhauled the Gremlins late in the season, finished at the top of the API Women's League.

Reds Lose Close One to Jays On Error and Rookie Pitching

By JACK HAND
(By the Associated Press)

Four rookie pitchers celebrated their first big league victories today but the biggest thrill went to Al Hollingsworth, 34-year-old veteran of 17 baseball campaigns, who graduated into the 1944 win by boosting the St. Louis Browns into a first place tie with the New York Yankees.

Hollingsworth's relief chore went on the ridge of the ledger when the Browns scored two runs in the ninth to tie the Washington and went on to a 4-3 verdict in 11 tight innings.

As Joe McCarthy's clan had fallen before Detroit, 6-2, in the afternoon, St. Louis moved into a percentage point tie for the lead at .571 although they have played seven more games, won four more and lost three more than the champs.

Forest Orrell engineered Detroit's third straight over New York in a relief role as pinch-hitter Al Unser belted Walt Dubiel for a bases-loaded home run with two out in the last of the ninth.

Specs Kleiman of the Cleveland Indians also passed the test in the role of a fireman, getting his first major league triumph after replacing Vern Kennedy in Cleveland's 7-4 edge over Boston.

Eddie Miller on Way to Top as Best Fielding Shortstop of All Time, Records Show

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK, June 1.—(AP)—Eddie Miller of the Cincinnati Reds, baseball's leading shortstop the last four years, appears on his way to become the best fielding shortstop of all time.

The 27-year-old native of Pittsburgh, Pa., seems destined to better his own fielding record of .983, established in 1942 when he made only 13 errors while tackling 748 chances in 142 games.

Including the game played May 31, Miller has accepted 205 chances in 37 games with only one error for a phenomenal fielding mark of .995. His lone miscue occurred in the third inning of the second game of a twin-bill against Boston, May 14. In getting set for an easy grounder Eddie took his eyes off the ball to see how far the runner from first had run to second.

If Miller continues to pace the shortfielders this year, he will tie Joe Tinker in leading the National League shortstops for five years. Miller's, however, will be in succession, whereas the best Tinker could do was two straight years.

Everett (Deacon) Scott of the Red Sox and Yankees holds the American League record, having led the circuit in fielding in each of eight seasons. Scott owns the junior league's best mark with .976 in 1918 and '19.

The Deacon averaged .968 for his eight best campaigns, a little over 24 errors per season in 144 games, never less than 17 errors. Miller's combined fielding mark for the last four years is .974, averaging a little less than 23 errors per season in 149 games, his lowest error total being 13 in 1942. Tinker's five-year mark is .948, an average of 29 errors per season.

A further check reveals that Marty Marion of the St. Louis Cardinals, Miller's closest rival, who many claim is the Red short-

Refugee Ship Stopped by Nazi Sub and Two Americans Carried Off

Passengers and crew reboarded the ship while the submarine hovered close at hand. It docked here secretly late Tuesday and the Navy disclosed the story yesterday.

The dead baby was the child of Abraham and Eva Trapunski, Polish refugees bound for Canada. Other victims were Antonio Ferreira Machado, ship's doctor, who fell into the sea from a Jacob's ladder, and Hermano Antonio, ship's cook, killed by a blow from a block on a lifeboat tackle.

The captured Americans were Manuel Pinto, 22, of Waterbury, Conn., and Virgilio Magina, 22, of New Bedford, Mass. The Germans also took a Canadian native and British subject, Camillo Grande Perez, 24, aboard the submarine but later released him.

Pinto, a farmer who had been in Portugal for a number of years, was the ship's chief officer.

Mrs. Maria A. Chaves, 35, of Fall River, Mass., coming to join her husband, said she almost drowned when the liner was ordered abandoned.

The Navy said the Serpa Pinto was stopped by gunfire and signals

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, June 1.—(AP)—Profit taking and the pressure of crop forecasts reporting good to excellent prospects for all small grains affected wheat futures today and prices at the close were fractionally below the day's best levels. Mill buying, heavy overnight purchases of flour and short covering had given the market for all grains a firm undertone during the early trading.

Weakness at Winnipeg, lack of demand and profit taking influenced rye futures which also lost part of their advances. Analysts said the rye market probably was vulnerable to a number of traders believing the rally had run its course.

Wheat closed 3/4 to 1 1/4 higher than yesterday, July 1.63 1/4. Oats were unchanged to 1/4 higher, July 77 1/2. Rye was unchanged to 1/4 higher, July 1.12 1/2. Barley was 1/4 to 3/4 higher, July 1.12 1/2.

—Spying— On Sports

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 1.—(AP)—Organized baseball might do well to take a leaf from pro football's book and establish a "draft" of college players. . . That's the opinion of Red Rolfe, whose main interest now is college baseball (particularly his Yale team), though he's somewhat better known as a great third baseman for the Yankees. . . Red recently suggested a national championship tournament as a post-war shot-in-the-arm for college baseball and he is keenly interested in forming an association of coaches for the betterment of the game. . . To round out his idea, he proposes that pro baseball should let the Athletics alone until they finish college and then the clubs could select the ones they wanted by some orderly process.

Personal Example

"Take my own case," said Red. "I was approached by a major league club in my sophomore year. But I preferred to finish my education and it certainly didn't hurt me any. When I graduated six clubs made me offers and I got a lot better bonus than I would have had if I had signed with the first one that heard of me." . . . Incidentally, the first bidder was the Yankees.

Maybe It's Dreaming

Rolfe visions the time when colleges, playing an improved brand of baseball, will be the feeders to the big leagues. . . "A college education is very important to a boy these days," he says. . . "I isn't exactly a necessity but in many cases a boy who hasn't gone to college is handicapped. I don't think baseball clubs should sign a boy until he graduates—or at least has the chance. Then if he doesn't make good or when he gets too old to play, he will have something to fall back on."

560 PRESENT AT INITIATION IN EAGLES LODGE

Grand Treasurer and District Director Emmet Passmore Are Speakers

A record attendance of 560 Eagles heard William Wetherald of Zanesville, grand treasurer of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, speak and witnessed the initiation of a "Father's Day" class of 34 at a special meeting in the Eagle lodge room here Wednesday night.

Past President Emmet Passmore, as master of ceremonies, introduced the speakers, including District Director Ray Ballenger of London.

R. B. Tharp, Passmore, Harry R. Mark, H. E. Cook and Paul Rumer made up the degree team which initiated the class of 34. In the class were:

Thurman Anders, Charles D. Butcher, Theodore B. Barnes, Earl F. Childress, James E. Curry, H. E. Cummings, John M. Duffield, Harold R. Enoch, S. J. Graves, Donald R. Jenkins, John Lanman, Charles Lanman, Jr., William E. Lonnis, Joseph W. Mossbarger, Jesse B. Mark, James Hockenberry, Theodore Davis, Estelle Adkins, Mack C. Mickle, Hugh Morris, Frank W. Manbevers, John E. Orr, Ralph E. Pope, Lloyd H. Rowland, Virgil M. Speakman, Lawrence Stewart, Charles A. Slack, Max Wilson, Robert B. West, Robert T. Wright, Ray D. Warner, Clarence J. Lindsey, Everett Yarger and Walter Yarger.

Ballenger welcomed the class as members of Fayette Aerie.

Wetherald, in his tracing of the history of the Eagles Lodge, stressed particularly laws which the lodge has been instrumental in passing since its organization in 1898. Workmen's compensation, mothers' pension and old age pension laws were legislations cited by Wetherald as instigated by the Eagles.

The Eagles' memorial building in Father Flanagan's famed Boys' Town; purchase of $7,000,000 worth of War Bonds monthly and the innumerable Eagles in the fighting forces were also mentioned by Wetherald.

Emmet Passmore, in an introductory speech, keynoted the meeting with his statement: "The occasion of our celebration is the fact that our Aerie has, during the lodge year been officially credited by national headquarters with 506 new members. This is no small attainment in any community of this size. At the present time we have more than 1300 members which is unquestionably the largest membership ever enjoyed by any fraternal organization in this county."

In speaking of the Eagle program, Passmore said, in part: "This program is built, partly, on a patriotic, a public welfare, a civic and a humanitarian basis and the practice of these ideals makes a very good foundation for any lodge. On the patriotic front, we as individual Eagles and as lodges purchase our share of War Savings Bonds and War Savings Stamps; we work in war plants and in war supporting industries; we contribute to and support all war agencies, such as, Red Cross, American War Fund, etc.; we keep all members of our lodge, who wear the uniform of their country, in good standing, for the duration. In the case of Fayette Aerie that number is now 235. For the benefit of their morale, while in military service, we keep in touch with them regularly, by mail, and at frequent intervals we provide them with useful gifts. Our genial and efficient secretary, Robert Bailey, has done a fine job in editing the Eagles Bulletin. This he does in addition to his many other duties. While our service-men are gone, we are not, for one minute, unmindful, with heart or purse, of their loved ones here at home. As a little added precaution we have already started to see that they are properly rehabilitated when they are discharged from the service. A committee has been appointed and is now working on this very important detail. We are proud of our brothers who serve in this greatest of all conflicts and our interest in them will continue until they have been satisfactorily placed in civilian life. Another service which we think can be placed on the patriotic front is the program which we have in effect for civilians (men and women) on the home front. For them we provide wholesome entertainment and their participation in it builds up their morale and makes of them better Americans."

Norman Cummings and his orchestra furnished musical entertainment during the fried chicken dinner served after the initiation ceremony.

BLOOMINGBURG OES HAS INSPECTION

Deputy Grand Matron Is Inspecting Officer

Mrs. Eva Owens, deputy grand matron, was the inspecting officer who graded the chapter as excellent when Forrest Chapter, number 122, O.E.S. of Bloomingburg met in the hall on Wednesday night. The worthy matron and patron, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Biddle, presided at the inspection.

Among the distinguished guests present were Marie Hamilton, Circleville past grand matron; the grand-electa Marian Roff, New Holland; deputy grand matron of the 18th District, Miss Jean Riddle, Mt. Sterling; the visiting matrons from Washington C. H., New Holland, Jeffersonville, Circleville, Mt. Sterling and Williamsport.

Candidates initiated were Mrs. Keith Garinger, Miss Jean Garinger, Miss Betty Smith and Miss Wilma Noble, who was a pro-tem candidate.

An informal social hour was held after the inspection. Refreshments were served in the hall decorated with peonies and roses.

POLICEMAN IS DISMISSED BY CITY MANAGER

Order Issued Removing Virgil Ingersol Who Was Suspended

City Manager W. L. Stambaugh has issued an order removing Virgil Ingersol from the police force, effective Thursday.

The order follows suspension of Ingersol for 30 days, issued a month ago, at which time it was stated by Stambaugh that the patrolman had been suspended for disciplinary purposes, and that at the conclusion of the suspension, he would dismiss Ingersol from the force.

The order of dismissal, directed to Ingersol, follows in full: "Pursuant to Section 486-17A of the General Code of the State of Ohio, you are hereby removed as a patrolman of the police force, City of Washington, for total neglect of duty, in the following particulars, to-wit: "On or about the 13th day of March, 1944, Officer Ingersol, while on duty and in uniform, refused to perform his duty as an officer and patrolman of the Police Force of said City of Washington, the said patrolman refusing to investigate a call to the police headquarters from Herb's Driveway Restaurant, located at the intersection of Clinton Avenue and Fair Avenues, in said City, said call requesting immediate aid; said Patrolman Ingersol giving as his reason that he would not go to Herb's Driveway Restaurant to answer any call originating from that establishment."

"That on or about the 3rd day of March, 1944, Officer Ingersol, while on duty in uniform, while at Herb's Driveway Restaurant, was guilty of immoral conduct, in that said Officer Ingersol, called the woman in charge of said restaurant a 'damned liar.'"

Ingersol can file a petition with the local civil service commission asking for a hearing on the charges, and the civil service commission would call a hearing on the charges.

At the time Ingersol was suspended a month ago, Elmer Kelly was dismissed from the service, not being under civil service.

City Fireman Vaiden Long was named to take the place of Ingersol, and Robert Palmer was appointed to take the place of Kelly.

Robert Creamer was appointed to fill the vacancy in the fire department.

WOMEN OF MOOSE WILL NAME OFFICERS FRIDAY
Women of the Moose will elect officers at their Friday night meeting, Mrs. Nina Allerdiss, regent, announced today. The meeting will be at 8 P.M. in the club-rooms.

The organization is sponsoring a rummage sale Saturday at 1:30 P.M. in the North Main Street Zero Locker Rooms, she added.

RECOVER PART OF HOGS STOLEN LAST JANUARY

Owner Identifies Nine on Farm of Man Accused Of Theft

Nine head of hogs stolen from the Alpha Realty Co. in Madison township last January, have been recovered on the farm operated by Edwin Howard, in Pickaway County, Sheriff W. H. Icenhower said Thursday.

The hogs were identified by Eugene Scott, manager of the Alpha Realty Company, and were taken in charge by Sheriff Charles Radcliff, of Pickaway County, who accompanied Sheriff Icenhower to the farm, armed with a writ of replevin.

Icenhower said that the hogs were readily identified by marks on their ears, and they will be held as evidence in connection with theft of 50 or 60 head from the Alpha Realty Co.

Howard was arrested last month on a charge of stealing the hogs, and when arraigned before Justice George Worrell in this city, entered a plea of innocent. He furnished $1,000 bond when held to the Fayette County grand jury with bond fixed at that amount.

The hogs were stolen for some-

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

If you have an excess of acids in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of excess acids and poisonous waste. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, g. pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up lights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, catarrhes and dizziness. Frequent or scanty urines with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with our kidneys or bladder.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

time before they were missed, and when efforts to trace the theft were futile, the Alpha Realty Co. offered $500 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the thief or thieves.

Howard's arrest followed soon after that, and the recovery of part of the hogs on his farm that are alleged to have been included in the large number stolen, is the latest development in the case.

FRED STANT CLAIMED BY DEATH TUESDAY

Former Good Hope Man Had Lived Here Since February

Funeral services for Fred Stant, 52, who died at his home, 1205 South Hinde Street, Monday night, were held at the Gregg Street Church of Christ in Christian Union, Thursday at 2 P. M.

A farmer who had spent most of his life in the Good Hope community, came to Washington C. H. last February. He was employ-

Give It A CHANCE To Help Feel BETTER

You can help your bowels to act properly by making it a habit to move them at regular times every day. If an occasional attack of bowel sluggishness causes headache or temporary minor intestinal distress, give TONJON Nos. 1 or 2 a chance to remove the waste matter accumulated in the bowels. Then see for yourself how much better you will feel.

... SAVE 2 WAYS WITH WARDS SUPER House Paint

Single Gallon 310 2.98 Gallon in 5's

- Gallon covers 400-450 sq. ft., 2 coats!
- Super "cleans itself," stays lovely!
- You can't buy better, at any price!

! YOU SAVE ON THE COST PER GALLON!
Super is top-quality, at a money-saving price. In impartial laboratory tests with the top grades of the 6 best-known nationally advertised house paints (ALL HIGHER IN PRICE) Super proved:—It HIDES BETTER (because of more Titanium Dioxide); GOES FARTHER (gallon covers 600-900 sq. ft., one coat); and LASTS LONGER (because it contains a more expensive Linseed Oil).

2 YOU SAVE ON THE "COST PER YEAR!"
In the average house paint job, only one-third of the cost is the paint itself; the other two-thirds is the labor. This labor cost is the same for a low-grade house paint (that will need repainting in a year or two) as it is for a LONG-LASTING top-grade paint like SUPER. That's why the longest lasting paint you can buy will cost you the least per year. So PAINT WITH WARDS SUPER... and SAVE!
